Abduction update:

Kidnap suspect is given a face

Police artist's sketch of suspect in abduction of 8-year old West Sacramento girl on August 3, drawn from a descriptiong given by a witness. The sketch was released Monday by West Sacramento police.

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

An eight-year old West Sacramento was kidnapped Saturday evening from near the corner of Sixth and E streets in West Sacrament where she had been playing with friends near her house. Nearly two hours later, she was found by a motorist, as she knelt on a sidewalk in Knights Landing in northern Yolo County.

The girl, whose identity is being withheld, has been returned to her family.

Lt. Dave Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department said the child is in generally good health, but it had not yet been determined if she had been assaulted.

"All indications are that the suspect just dropped her off," he said of the girl's release in Knights Landing.

Yesterday, police released a sketch of the suspect, drawn with help from an adult witness. The suspect is described as a Hispanic male adult, with black, wavy, slicked-back hair, wearing a white T-shirt. He was driving a mid-90s, two-door Honda Accord, powder-blue or light silver. The car is believed to have a modified exhaust system and lowered suspension. Its wheels probably have a chrome strip surrounding them, as well as sport-style chrome rims. The car may have had a stick shift transmission.

As the girl played at a street corner at about 6:48 p.m. Saturday, the suspect left his car, walked up to her and grabbed her. As she screamed, he placed her in the passenger seat of his car, crawled over her to the driver's seat and drove away.

The "Amber-Alert System" for child abductions was activated by law enforcement personnel. The cities of Davis and Woodland each provided four officers to assist in canvassing the surrounding neighborhood in West Sacramento. Assistance also came from the Yolo County Probation Department and the Woodland Parole division. Sacramento police provided a helicopter to search by air, and the Yolo County Sheriff's Department responded to the discovery of the girl (and the motorist's call to 911) in Knights Landing.

The alert system also includes the provision for putting information about the victim, suspect and suspect's car on changeable message boards along highways and freeways in the region, said Lt. Farmer, although it was not clear how these messages may have been used in Saturday's case.

The suspect "should be considered dangerous," said local police. Anyone with information is asked to call 372-2461 ext. 248, or police dispatch at 375-6474.

Speeeeeed boats

'Cigarette' boats, personal watercraft, barefoot water skiiers and other aquatic entertainment was featured in last weekend's "Bridge to Bridge" celebration along the Sacramento Waterfront. The event was organized by the Sacramento Convention and Visitors Bureau and was free of charge. Puppet shows, a "history of bathing suits" fashion show and music were also featured on the Sacramento side of the river, although the boating time trials and exhibitions were viewable from West Sacramento as well.

Housing help

From the City of West Sacramento – Longtime resident Rose Morales stands at the front door of her newly remodeled West Sacramento home. Construction was completed by students of Northern California Construction Training, Inc. (NCCT), a federal- and state-funded employment training program, in conjunction with the city's Housing Rehabilitation program, which provides loans for repairs to single-family or multi-family properties. Above, Rose receives congratulations from Gordon Krook of NCCT (left); and West Sacramento City Council Member Oscar Villegas (right). Rose is joined by her grandson, Benito.

For more information about these programs, contact NCCT at 372-7422 and the city rehabilitation specialist at 373-5865.

Port: against QUAD measure

The Port of Sacramento's governing commission Monday voted unanimously to oppose Measure L on the November ballot, the Southport and Port of Sacramento General Plan and Zoning Initiative.

"Basically, they felt that the initiative was not the proper way to deal with the land use issues," said Ron Popham, marketing director for the port. "There are processes in place to deal with the land use issues."

The measure was written by the West Sacramento Quality Urbanization And Development group, and would restrict new industrial development in Southport and on port

Address change: News-Ledger moved

The News-Ledger is at a new location.

The newspaper is now located at 1040 West Capitol Ave., Suite B, in West Sacramento, California, 95691. The mailing address, phone and fax numbers remain unchanged.

The new location is just to the east of the new city hall construction site and east of Jefferson Blvd. To visit the office, enter at Casa Mobile Circle north from West Capitol.

Man shot near West Capitol Ave. bar

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A man is recovering from a gunshot wound to the head he sustained Friday night shortly after midnight.

"He was shot in front of the Reno Club (a West Capitol Ave. establishment) and hit behind the right ear," said Lt. Dave Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department. "He is doing well in the hospital, but hasn't been released yet."

The victim is described as a North Sacramento resident in his early 20s.

"This may have been precipitated by an earlier incident, where a subject walked over to the Reno Club and asked the victim if he was a (local gang) member, and the victim replied 'no.' The suspect left, and later came back, and words were exchanged and the victim was shot."

The suspect may have come from the Pecan St. area, and may have left the area in a black pickup truck.

The suspect is described as a Hispanic male with a "Mongolian" haircut – a shaved head with a patch of hair and ponytail, standing about 5' 7" tall and weighing about 150 pounds. His age is estimated at 16 or 17 years old. Anyone with information may call 372-2461 and ask for the detectives' division.

Work crew finds body

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A Yolo County probation crew cleaning up property near the eastbound U.S. 50 offramp at Jefferson Blvd. found the body of a man who appeared to have been dead "for some time," said a West Sacramento Police Department report. The body was found among bushes.

Lt. David Farmer of the West Sacramento Police Department said the man had been identified as a Sacramento resident. There were no obvious signs of trauma to the body, and police were awaiting the results of a coroner's investigation to help determine the cause of death.

The man's identification was being withheld pending notification of any next of kin.

'Roots' music headlines Riverbank Fest

The West Sacramento Chamber of Commerce and the City of West Sacramento have announced the lineup for the ninth annual Riverbank Music Festival.

The theme of the event will be "a celebration of American roots music," featuring the Blind Boys of Alabama, Dave Alvin and the Guilty Men, and local blues artist Jackie Greene.

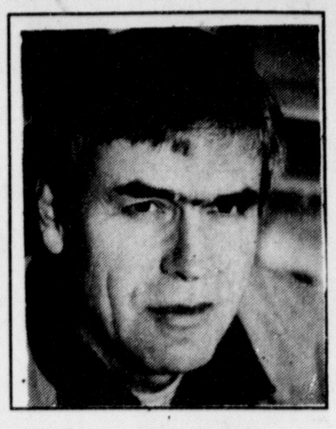
The concert will take place from 5 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. on Sun., Sept. 22, at West Sacramento's River Walk Park just north of the Tower Bridge.

Tickets are $5 (call 371-7042).

Visitors are encouraged to bring lawn chairs (low models) and ice chests without glass containers or alcoholic beverages. Refreshments, including microbrewed beer, will be available for purchase.

Women just don't seem to care if their car is clean

My Back Pages



By Daryl Fisher

This past Saturday, I was standing out in my driveway getting ready to leisurely scrub my truck from top to bottom when my daughter suddenly wheeled her car up behind mine and slammed on the brakes.

"Can't you please pull into the driveway a little bit slower?" I asked her as politely as I could as she climbed out from behind her steering wheel. "Don't you know your front tires are going to get all out of alinement if you keep slamming them into the curb like that?"

"So, what are you up to, Dad?" she asked, ignoring my question.

"I'm washing the truck."

"Why?"

"Because it's dirty."

"It doesn't look dirty to me."

"Are you kidding? It's filthy."

"It is not."

"It is so."

"Even if it was," she said, "it's just going to get dirty all over again the minute you back it out of the driveway."

"But that's not the point."

"Then what is the point?" she asked with what appeared to be genuine interest.

"The point is quite simple," I explained. "My truck is filthy and it needs to be washed. If I don't do it now, it's just going to keep getting dirtier and dirtier."

"But don't you realize how anal that is, Dad -- to always have to be washing your car? Now you don't see me washing my car all the time, do you?" Then she proudly pointed to the dirtiest motor vehicle in West Sacramento.

"And just look at it," I said. "It's still covered with the same bird crap that's been on it for months. Do you know the kind of damage that does to a paint job?"

As my daughter and I continued to exchange verbal punches, I found myself wondering just what it is that prevents most women from experiencing that great inner calm (I think it's a form of bliss, actually) which comes over most men when they know for certain that they are driving around in a truly clean vehicle? And why is it that even those women who do keep their cars reasonably clean prefer to have them washed at one of those trendy professional places, where uncaring minimum wage workers charge a small fortune to keep unsuspecting customers from ever discovering the real joys of car-washing?

"Dad," said my daughter, shaking my arm, "you're not listening to me."

"I'm sorry," I said, wondering if women will ever understand that cars actually run better after they've been washed, "what did you say?"

"I said, if you're going to insist on standing out here and washing a perfectly clean truck, you might as well go ahead and wash my car a little bit, too -- if you want."

"Hey, I know what," I said eagerly, "why don't you grab a couple of towels out of the garage and we'll wash our cars together. How's that? It'll be fun. I'll even show you how it's done."

"You mean there's actually a technique involved?" she asked with a smile.

"Of course there is," I said, stepping over to my daughter's car with her. "To begin with, you don't want the water too hot and you don't want to leave the soap on too long -- especially on hot days. And you always want to start with the roof and work your way down."

"Why do I have to start at the top? Can't I just begin at the bottom if I want?"

Before I could explain to my daughter that washing a car from the bottom up was completely out of the question, I made the mistake of glancing through the driver's window and into the interior of her car. "My God! I shouted in horror.

"What's the matter?" asked my daughter with alarm.

"I don't think I've ever seen anything quite like it in my whole life," I finally managed to say, still not believing my eyes.

"What?"

"The inside of your car!" I exclaimed as I took a deep breath and bravely bent at the waste to get a closer look.

There was garbage and assorted junk scattered absolutely everywhere, including empty Diet Coke and Dr. Pepper cans, Burger King and McDonalds' cheeseburger wrappers, dozens of wadded up Kleenex tissues, old lipstick and eye mascara containers, used straws, discarded pens and pencils, books and old college exam papers yellowed by the sun, coins of every size and denomination, paper clips, gym socks in need of a good wash, and even a couple of combs big enough that they could probably be used to successfully fight off a car highjacker.

"Just what is wrong with the inside of my car?" my daughter demanded to know.

"It looks like a homeless person has been living in there!"

"It does not."

"Carrie," I pleaded from my hopelessly male point of view, "you've just got to learn how to properly take care of your car. The inside of a car is a sacred place. It's a person's home away from home. It's where you listen to great music, think really profound thoughts, make love for the first time, and hide from all the problems of the real world. You have to keep it clean -- even cleaner than the outside of your car."

"Well," said my daughter, "if you ask me, the inside of my car looks just fine."

"No it doesn't! It looks like the inside of a giant purse!"

On July 21-23, West Sacramento's River City Dance Academy performed at Disneyland, showcasing their talents to an enthusiastic audience at the amusement park's Plaza Gardens Stage. All 58 students, ranging in age from 5-21, also got to take a journey inside Disneyland and participate in workshops taught by a Disney choreographer/director.

Traveling with the local performers were Tirza Warren, their director/teacher, Ashley Carroll, assistant director, teachers Leah Riggs, Jill Braden, Elizabeth Ercila, and Jennifer Fiddler, and five chaperones and numerous parents and family members.

SPORTS

SPORTS INSIDER

By Richard Novoa

Major League Baseball

The Giants (61-50) road trip back east was a rough ride through Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. The Giants still trail the red-hot the division leading Diamondbacks by 7 games and the wild card leading Dodgers by 1 game.

The bad news for baseball fans continues as the ball players are still considering going on strike. Baseball Commissioner Bud Selig still denies the possibly of a work stoppage between the players and club owners but if there is a strike coming, the players will walk off before the beginning of September.

The good news for a baseball fan is that Barry Bonds is closing in on 600 home runs. Mr. Bonds is two home runs shy of joining Hank Aaron (755), Babe Ruth (714) and Willie Mays (660) in the 600 club. After 600 the next important home run milestone would be No. 661, the one that would pass Willie Mays, who is Barry's godfather.

The Giants return to Pac Bell Park this week to tangle with Slam-in Sammy Sosa and the Chicago Cubs starting on Tuesday, August 6th. The G-Men will close out the weekend with a three game series against the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Oakland A' shortstop, Miguel Tejada, continues his hitting streak that reached 24 games, one shy of Jason Giambi's Oakland record. It's the longest ever by an A's shortstop and the longest in the American League this season. The A's (64-48), who trail Seattle by 5 games, will be on the road this week to battle the Boston Red Sox.

NFL Action

The 49ers suffered embarrassing 38-7 loss to the Washington Redskins on Saturday night in Osaka, Japan. The Niners used their third and fourth string players while the Redskins used this exhibition game to workout their quarterbacks as they battle for the Skins wide open quarterback position. The good news for the Niners was there were no major injuries to report except their pride.

The 49ers have four preseason games remaining, beginning with a home game Saturday night against Kansas City. The regular-season opener is Sept. 5 at the New York Giants. Oakland opens up their pre-season on Friday, August 9 against the Dallas Cowboys (6 p.m.) and then again on Thursday, August 15th against the Tennessee Titans (5 p.m. ESPN). Don't forget the pre-season game on Saturday, August 24 vs. San Francisco 49ers. Bay area bragging rights will be at stake!

Boxing

West Sacramento's WBC champion, Willie Jorrin, will know before this weekend who, when, and where his next boxing payday will involve. Jorrin is set to defend his title on September 27th at the Arco against the No. 1 contender, Oscar Larios but boxing promoter, Don Chargin has another plan.

Jorrin may have the opportunity to fight Marcos Antonio Barrera on November 2nd in Las Vegas. Stay tuned for the continuing saga of championship boxing. Speaking of championship boxing Sacramento's crusierweight, Michael Simms, is set to fight on the undercard of a August 17th - Pay-Per-View event in Las Vegas.

Art guild reemerges, seeks new blood

By Betty F. Sokolich

Good news for the artists of West Sacramento. The West Sacramento Art Guild is once again a vital group of creative people. For many years, the Art Guild was actively presenting the many diverse expressions created by West Sacramento artists but, as with many other groups, the original founders of the club had many life changes so the Guild became inactive for a few years. Now there are new people in West Sacramento willing to devote the necessary time to keep an organization vital.

At a recent meeting of the members a slate of officers was elected and they are: Stella Caluya, Chairperson; Dawn St. Nichols, Exhibition Chairperson; Julie Small, Secretary and Treasurer; Bill Leek, Publicity; James Pitocco, Representative to the Yolo County Art Council.

The meetings will be held on the last Tuesday of the month and the next meeting will be on August 27th. The will known West Sacramento artist, Ann Bissett Clark, has generously offered her studio at 1510 Merkley Avenue as the regular meeting place for the West Sacramento Art Guild. This is a great opportunity for artists to get together and share ideals and work together to find places to display their work.

If you are interested in becoming a member of this emerging guild, please contact the new chairperson, Stella Caluya at 371-3744 for further information. You will be a very welcome new member. The dues are a nominal $10 annually.

Police log

July 29, 9:57 p.m.
Two men in their 20s, at least one of whom had a handgun, robbed a Halyard Dr. motel. They took a purse from a customer during the robbery.

July 30, 7:40 a.m.
An officer contacted a 20-year old and a 22-year old Sacramento man sleeping on River Walk Park. Both had outstanding warrants, and were arrested.

July 31, 11 a.m.
On Anna St., police recovered an unoccupied stolen car.

July 31, 11:50 a.m.
A 12-year old received a threatening phone call from another youth about the same age. The victim's family requested that police contact and advise the young suspect.

July 31, 2 p.m.
A woman at a Houston St. business said that the husband of a co-worker had come in and threatened to kill her and her children for allowing his wife to stay at her residence. Police contacted the suspect, who said he was angry with the woman for selling "crank" to his wife.

July 31, 3 p.m.
An officer saw a known prostitute attempting to wave down cars. She told the officer she was "waiting for a friend." She had a syringe and glass pipe in her possession. She was arrested for drug and prostitution charges.

Aug. 1, 7:45 a.m.
An officer stopped a driver on West Capitol Ave. near Jefferson for a vehicle code violation. The driver had a suspended driver's license, and his vehicle was impounded. The man was arrested for an outstanding felony warrant.

Aug. 1, 9:05 a.m.
Manchester Ave.: A woman's cell phone had been stolen a week earlier. The phone's usage indicated a potential juvenile suspect. Officers visited the youth's home, but did not find him.

Aug. 1, 11:30 a.m.
Officers attempted to contact a Walnut St. woman accused of misdemeanor battery on another woman. The suspect refused to talk to officers or come out of her home. Officers left the area, intending to forward a report to the district attorney, but later saw the suspect driving her car. She did not yield when an officer attempted to pull her over, but eventually stopped at a supermarket parking lot and was arrested.

Aug. 1, 2:30 p.m.
On Andrea, a car was towed from private property. It turned out to have been stolen.

Aug. 1, 6:05 p.m.
On Del Monte St., an officer took a report of a stolen handgun. A man had left the gun in his brother's car after they went to a firing range prior to going to work in West Sacramento. The car was burglarized and the gun stolen.

Aug. 1, 8:10 p.m.
Near West Capitol Ave. and Poplar, police received a report that a suspect had been running down West Capitol shooting at an eastbound car. One round went through a motel window but no one was hurt. A slug was recovered from the motel room.

Aug. 2, 2:50 a.m.
A man returned to his Simon Terrace home after a week away. He found his front door open and the residence had been burglarized, with a semi-automatic rifle missing.

Aug. 4, 3:47 p.m.
An officer contacted a 27-year old man at a Smilax address regarding a "hang-up" 911 call. The man was evasive. He was found to have outstanding warrants, and was arrested.

City council & school district:

New candidate; plus ballot measures get names

As the News-Ledger went to press yesterday, one new candidate had picked up papers to file for candidacy on November's local ballot.

Carolyn Castillo Pierson joins the list of potential candidates for the two West Sacramento city council seats currently held by Christopher Cabaldon and Jim Cahill – both of whom have also taken the first step towards running again.

Other potential challengers include Jeff Henry, Kimber Goddard, Mark Johannessen and Alan P. Morgan. A sixth potential challenger, Theodora Boylan, picked up candidacy papers but told the News-Ledger that she had decided afterwards not to run.

Meanwhile, the field of potential candidates for seats on the Washington Unified School District board of trustees (school board) remains unchanged from last week.

Incumbent Ardeene Westvik has told the News-Ledger she does not intend to seek a third term. Fellow board member David Farmer has said he does intend to run again, but has not yet picked up candidacy papers.

Challengers Rusty Mendez, Claudia Rodland and David Trussell have all picked up candidacy papers.

Rodland is the only person from either the city council race or the school board race to yet turn in the candidacy papers and finalize her candidacy.

The filing period for both elections ends Friday. If one of the incumbents who holds a seat up for election in either race fails to file for re-election by Friday, then the filing period for challengers in that race will be extended to Aug. 14.

For information on running for city council, call 373-5800. For information on running for the school board, call (530) 666-8133.

City clerk Helen Kanowsky has announced that the ballot initiatives for West Sacramento's local ballot in November have been "named."

The city-sponsored referendum on whether to increase the local sales tax rate will be Measure K.

The related city-sponsored question on how the public would like to spend any new sales tax revenue will be Measure J. This measure is an "advisory" measure which would only have meaning if Measure K passes.

The "Premier City Initiative," championed by the West Sacramento Quality Urbanization and Development (WSQUAD) group to de-emphasize future industrial development in the city, will be Measure L.

The city has titled this measure the "Southport and Port of Sacramento General Plan and Zoning Initiative."

In local government

The West Sacramento City Council meets tonight at 1350 Halyard Drive in public session beginning at 7 p.m.

Agenda items include a presentation on the local mosquito & vector control district; hearing and adoption of a tax exempt bond application and inclusionary housing agreement for the Southport Apartment project on Southport Parkway; public improvements in Southport Industrial Park; final map for Metro Place at Washington Square; freeway agreement with Caltrans for U.S. 50 at Harbor Blvd.; PSIP tank rehabilitation contract; $20,088 local government match for FEMA Fire Act grant for fire prevention; approval of transportation development act claim; consideration of ballot argument for sales tax initiative (written by Mayor Kristoff);

Presentation by regional water authority; consideration of denial of "public necessity" letter for alcoholic beverage license at Reed Avenue Unocal Foodmart; ; workshop on neighborhood enhancement and revitalization program; and other matters.

The school board of the Washington Unified School District will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. in public session at 930 Westacre Rd.

Agenda items include:

Acceptance of $24,878 donation from Central Valley Foundation for after-school writing project at Evergreen Elementary School; bargaining unit updates; contract with consultant for RCHS; non-public school placements for students with disabilities; speech therapy services; STAR testing report; Bridgeway Island Elementary School construction update; legal services for real estate matters; emergency contracting without bidding for public works project not completed due to contractor bankruptcy;

Changes in home-to-school pupil transportation (new bus schedules); final 2001-02 budget revisions; and various personnel issues.

The West Sacramento Police Department is scheduled for an on-site assessment as part of its effort to achieve accreditation from the Commission on Accreditation for Law Enforcement Agencies, Inc. (CALEA). The program requires agencies to comply with "state of the art" standards in policy and procedures, administrations, operations and support services, reports the police department.

City employees and community members are invited to offer comments at an informational hearing at 7 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 26 at 1350 Halyard Drive. They can also phone 373-5891 on Aug. 26 between 1 p.m. and 5 p.m. to offer comments.

Copies of the standards are available at the department, located at 550 Jefferson Blvd. For information, contact Evelyn Ledesma, 372-2461 ext. 231.

Written comments may be sent to CALEA, 10306 Eaton Place, Suite 320, Fairfax, VA 22030-2201.

News-Ledger Editorial

Filthy scoundrels and other newspaper lore

As you know, the News-Ledger moved its offices last week for the first time in a long time. All that packing and unpacking created another chance to pause for a moment with one of the favorite books from our bookshelf – a history of American community newspapers. It's always fun to glance through those pages and see how things have changed, and how they've stayed the same, from Ben Franklin's day to the frontier publications of small-town Old West, more contemporary small town newspapers.

Here are some favorite tidbits from "From Quill to Computer," by Robert F. Karolevitz:

"Three hostile newspapers are more to be feared than a thousand bayonets," said Napoleon Bonaparte.

"Any person that don't read at least one well-written country newspaper is not truly informed," opined Will Rogers.

"The theory of a free press is that the truth will emerge from reporting and free discussion, not that it will be presented perfectly and instantly in any one account," said Walter Lippman.

"Harmony seldom makes a headline," Silas Bent tells us.

Jim Bishop makes a comment that seems less true now in the heyday of the media conglomerate:

"Perhaps the best thing which can be said about newspapers in the United States is that they are in chronic disagreement with each other. That is what is meant by a free press."

Perhaps our favorite part of the book is its chronicle of the wide-open, libel-be-damned journalism targeting politicians and competing newspapers. Invective and feistiness often prevailed on the pages of small-town newspapers, particularly around the late 1800s.

For instance, a Kansas editor once wrote that three competing journalists were "the lowest, dirtiest, filthiest scoundrels that ever infested any place on earth."

This, naturally, drew a response, in the pages of the targeted Kansas City (Missouri) Times:

"The fiendish, bloodthirsty proprietor of the Leavenworth Times is so fearfully low down and utterly despicable. . . that this bestiality of disposition and brutishness of heart have banished him from the walk of life of every gentleman, and he stalks through our streets, despised, shunned and hideous to the sight." Even dogs pass him by, the Kansas City paper continued, while "writhing in agony in search of a cleaner post."

Or consider this exchange between two Arizona editors. In 1874, one called the other a "dirty nincompoop" and his newspaper a "dirty abortion," continuing:

". . . we had the extreme mortification of seeing the editor of the Miner, in a party given by Colonel Baker in Prescott, laid out in the refreshment room, dead drunk, with candles placed at his head and feet, and a regular 'wake' held over him. It was then for the first time that we discovered Darwin's connecting link between the fish and the quadruped. As he lay, with his drunken slobber issuing from his immense mouth, which extends from ear to ear, and his ears reaching up so high, everyone present was forcibly impressed with the fact that there was a connecting link between the catfish and the jackass."

Now, that's good newspaper writing!

The catfish/jackass link, of course, had to reply in print:

"(The other editor's) first great care was to fill himself with whiskey, after which it is his custom to walk, like the swine that he is, on all fours to his den. Again, he cannot have forgotten his visit to Lynx Creek, in the summer of 1864, when he rolled over a pine log, dead drunk, and served a useful purpose for a jocose man. . . Yes, Judge, we own up to that little drink of ours; unlike you, we were not pointed out and derided as a regular whiskey bloat; nor did any person ever attempt to use us for a water-closet, as you were used that day, on Lynx Creek."

The first of these two newspapers also targeted public officials:

"That miserable old politician. . . is a dirty, low, black-guardly letter. . . We should have left him to the people of Mohave County, who know what a curse the old growling scalliwag has been to them, and know how to appreciate his insane and filthy ravings."

Needless to say, frontier journalism was rife with duels, murders, beatings and tar-and-feather sessions. Mark Twain described a "typical" day in a pioneer newspaper office, with the following "instructions" left with an assistant by a newspaper editor leaving on an errand:

"Jones will be here at three – cowhide him, Gillespie will call earlier, perhaps – throw him out the window. Ferguson will be along about four – kill him. That is all for today, I believe. If you have any odd time, you may write a blistering article on the police. The cowhides are under the table, weapons in the drawer, ammunition there in the corner, lint and bandages up there in the pigeonholes. In case of accident, go to Lancet, the surgeon downstairs. He advertises; we take it out in trade."

Those were the days!

But why not finish on a positive note? Said Will Rogers:

"Don't under-estimate your paper. I don't care how small it is, and how little news you think it might have in it at that particular issue. Lord kiss it for the news that it does bring you."

"From Quill to Computer: The Story of America's Community Newspapers," was published privately by the National Newspaper Foundation in 1985.

Letters to the Editor

We already have a Premier City

We have lived our life in the comfortable blue collar town of West Sacramento, and are presently very concerned over some of the following issues which have been brought up by QUAD:

1. The Port of Sacramento is an industrial port and we need a certain amount of the tax this industry provides. Housing alone does not generate enough tax to run a city. And when we talk industry, we mean clean industry.

2. QUAD states that the developers did not tell people they were buying into an industrial area. We always felt that it was our responsibility to find out what we were buying and where it was located.

3. QUAD seems to put out a lot of information that is misleading, or false, causing them to apologize for some of their statements. We consider this to be a very poor way to get a point across.

4. Turning the port into a Jack London Square is a pipe dream. Like Yogi Berra would say, "Ain't gonna happen." We don't have the population base, and certainly do not have the carriage or tourist trade. In our opinion, some building proposals at the port which QUAD was so against would have added monies to the city coffers with absolutely no harmful environmental impact to the area.

In closing, we love West Sacramento and feel we already have a Premier City with a few flaws, as all cities have, and suggest that any members of QUAD who have a problem with this go somewhere else where their twisted ideals may sell. We like our city as it is and don't want it turned upside down.

NOTICE TO RELY ON A PREVIOUSLY CERTIFIED EIR

The City of West Sacramento intends to rely on the previously certified Sacramento International Airport Jet Fuel Pipeline and Tank Farm Project EIR (SCH#2000112013) as the basis for its approval of a Conditional Use Permit to construct the Project's metering station at 4200 West Capitol Avenue in the City of West Sacramento. This action is being taken pursuant to Section 21157.1 of the California Environmental Quality Act. The Sacramento International Airport Jet Fuel Pipeline and Tank Farm Project is a multi-jurisdictional project with facilities in Sacramento County, Yolo County and the City of West Sacramento. The project at 4200 West Capitol Avenue in West Sacramento consists of the construction and operation of a jet fuel metering station on a portion of a 37.6-acre parcel zoned M-2 (Heavy Industrial). The previously certified EIR concludes that with the implementation of recommended mitigation measures there will be no significant adverse impacts on the environment.

Copies of the EIR are on file in the office of the West Sacramento Community Development Department at 1951 South River Road, West Sacramento, CA 95691 (telephone: 916/373-5854). Any affected or interested parties may comment on the decision to rely on the previously certified EIR and/or the proposed project during the public comment period, which begins on August 1, 2002 and ends on August 30, 2002.

The West Sacramento Planning Commission will consider the project and the decision to rely on the previously certified EIR on September 19, 2002, in the City Council chambers located at 1350 Halyard Drive, West Sacramento, CA, 95691 at 6:00 p.m., or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard.

DINING, TRAVEL & ENTERTAINMENT

Touring with Teddi

by Teddi Boylan

Columnist Teddi Boylan brings you her recommendations of places to dine and places to visit in the greater West Sacramento area. Her travels include both stops at our advertisers' establishments and other institutions. Enjoy!

Seated at an outside table under an umbrella, surrounded by fields of green grass, potted plants and blooming flowers, I enjoyed one of the best lunch experiences I have had in a good long time.

My friend, Bonnie, and I had a luncheon date out at the Lighthouse Bar & Grill on Douglas Street. Along with the beautiful scenery, they had "entertainment." We sat and watched all the would-be Tiger Woodses on the putting green. The inside dining room and bar is rather small but pleasant, with pictures of various lighthouses adorning the walls and a few cozy tables and stools at the well-stocked bar.

After ordering from the young lady, we proceeded out to the table. The two young ladies inside were most pleasant and amiable. Our food was delivered and we were in for another pleasant experience. The menu has two main sections: "The Grill" and "The Deli." All items ordered from either part are served with ranch salad, Caesar salad or French fries. The Grill prices range from a Miller hot dog at $4 to a chicken sandwich at $5.75. The Deli features four sandwiches, each for $4.75. The cheeseburger with Caesar salad I had was huge, with red onions, lettuce, tomato, and a crunchy crisp pickle.

Bonnie had a turkey breast sandwich on toast with the Caesar salad. We both agreed it was the best Caesar salad we've had in a good long time. Also available are salads and soups served with a French roll. A large ranch or Caesar salad is $5.25, and with chicken it's $6.25. Small salads are $3.25; a cup of the soup of the day is $2.75, and a bowl of soup is $3.25. If chili is your love, it's just $4.25.

The bar is well-stocked and reasonable. A glass of wine is $3.25 for a zinfandel, to $4 for a Cabernet or merlot. A can of beer is $2.50, and a bottle is $3.25. They also have pitchers of draft beer for $10.75. "Well" cocktails are $3.25 and "call" drinks are $3.75.

I cannot stress enough how pleasant this outside dining experience was. I will certainly make it one of my favorite lunch spots. The Lighthouse Bar and Grill is open seven days a week from 6:30 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Lighthouse Bar & Grill: 500 Douglas St., West Sacramento. 372-0800.

The "jam sessions" at the Idle Hour on Friday nights at 9 p.m. have been growing by leaps and bounds.

Don Hayden, the owner, counted 20 musicians last Friday night. This on Fridays, and the shuffleboard tournament at 2 p.m. on Sundays are both played to a very full house. There's always something happening at the Idle Hour on Sacramento Avenue.

Those of you who see no reason for the formation of the West Sacramento Restaurant & Bar Association had better read the editorial "Puff or swig and you may pay more," by Jim Sanders on the front page of the Sacramento Bee on Friday, Aug. 2.

It seems the legislature has a number of proposed bills before them that would increase the tax you pay on all kinds of beer, booze and wine. As an individual, you have no voice. As an association, the legislature is forced to listen to you. There is strength in numbers.

Mike Falasco, spokesman for the Wine Institute, stated that his group does not support either of the liquor bills. He regards them as paving the way for new ones to be added in the future. Dane Starling, spokesperson for Anheuser Busch, said the state should not look to a single industry to solve its problems.

Remember, the formative meeting for the West Sacramento Restaurant & Bar Association is Sun., Aug. 18, at 1:30 p.m. at the Westside Pub & Grill on Sixth Street off of Sacramento Avenue. Come and be heard as one voice. Call 372-5110 to let them know you're going to attend.

What's your favorite local spot?

HERE IS A PLEASANT LITTLE GAME that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner and check one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

PORT from page one

property.

The measure is also opposed by the port's labor unions. It was generated in response to the port's consideration of several land uses viewed as objectionable by WS-QUAD's members, including a gas-fired power plant, ethanol plant and concrete-casting plant.

Last Thursday, the port narrowly lost a city planning commission decision to lock in a new development map for the port's southern acreage.

The commission voted 4-3 to delay the map portion of a new development agreement until other issues in the agreement were worked out as well. The WS-QUAD group and Summit Commercial Properties, whose Southport Business Park is affected by the Seaway agreement, asked the commission to wait.

The port hopes to modify a previous development agreement, allowing it to design larger industrial parcels on Seaway to make the property more attractive to future tenants.

Derek Backus, president of WS-QUAD, said he viewed the attempt to "lock in" a map for 140-acre, industrial Seaway development last week as an attempt by the port to protect itself from the upcoming ballot initiative.

"I'm encouraged that at least four members of the planning commission listened to a request by one of the (development agreement) partners, Summit, not to push the thing through. I was a little disturbed by the deference payed by the commission to the port's representatives, even reopening the public hearing for them. It seems the city is facilitating the development agreement to assist the port in immunizing itself against the initiative."

If Measure L passes in November, it could harm the port's chances of developing the property as new industry. But if the port has a "vested interest" in developing the land as industrial, it could be protected from the initiative. Giving the port a new official development map could help it "vest" its interests before the November ballot, Backus argued.

Popham, the port's marketing director, said that the port's request to lock in the Seaway map wasn't so political.

"It's more a matter of reaching this point in the process where we felt we could go ahead, rather than positioning ourselves in front of the initiative," he commented. "I don't see it as a political motive. It's taken us three years to get to this point."

Part of the development agreement with the city involves a deal for the port to compensate Summit Commercial Properties for infrastructure work Summit has already done in the area. Popham said the two sides will continue negotiating.

City planning director Steve Patek said the matter will be taken up by the commission again on Aug. 15.

Moments in time

THE HISTORY CHANNEL

• On Aug. 18, 1227, Genghis Khan, the Mongol leader who forged an empire stretching from the east coast of China west to the Aral Sea, dies in camp during a campaign against the Chinese kingdom of Xi Xia. He was over 60 and in failing health and may have succumbed to injuries incurred during a fall from a horse the previous year.

• On Aug. 13, 1928, WRNY in Coytesville, N.J., became the first station to broadcast a television image. The studio broadcast an image of a woman's face to New York City, where it was viewed by 500 people. The transmitted image was only 1.5 inches square.

• On Aug. 17, 1943, U.S. Gen. George S. Patton and his 7th Army arrive in Messina several hours before British Field Marshal Bernard L. Montgomery and his 8th Army, winning the unofficial "Race to Messina" and completing the Allied conquest of Sicily.

• On Aug. 14, 1945, comedian, actor and writer Steve Martin is born in Waco, Texas. Martin moved to Garden Grove, Calif., and as a teen worked at Disneyland, entertaining crowds with magic tricks and later with banjo music and comedy.

• On Aug. 15, 1961, East German authorities begin building a wall — the Berlin Wall — to permanently close off access to the West. For the next 28 years, it stood as the most tangible symbol of the Cold War — a physical "iron curtain" dividing Europe.

• On Aug. 16, 1977, popular music icon Elvis Presley dies in Memphis, Tenn., at age 42. The death of the "King of Rock and Roll" brought legions of mourning fans to Grace land, his mansion in Memphis.

Most local schools open August 15

All Washington Unified School District schools, except River City, will open their doors to students on Thursday, August 15th. This date was the result of the adoption of a common calendar last January. Golden State Middle School will have 100% of its students on campus for the first time in years. The Board of Education collapsed the former multi-track calendar to provide equal academic opportunities for all students. The early August 15th starting date allows the calendar to accommodate a one-week Thanksgiving break, three-week Winter break, and a two-week Spring break.

The beginning of the 2002/03 school year will welcome students with air conditioning and modernized classrooms for the first time in nine of the eleven schools. Phase One of the new Bridgeway Island Elementary School is complete and ready to house students. Bus schedules and stops have been improved for efficiency and on-time service. For bus stop and schedule information, contact the respective school site or the Transformation Department at 375-7690.

Two elementary schools, Westfield and Elkhorn, will start the year with a brand new instructional program aimed at improving English language skills and student achievement. All elementary school teachers have been provided additional training over the summer. Teacher "Literacy Coaches" have been hired and trained to ensure additional support in delivery of the district's instructional program.

River City High School will open on Tuesday, September 3rd. It will follow its traditional calendar while it continues to be remodeled throughout the year. The high school calendar will conform with the rest of the district in 2003/04.
